In the Baltimore Criminal Court on Satur- t, George Nashman and Thomas Turpin, ctors of the French Froliques, a disreputa- ce of amusement on Baltimore street, oppo- Seva office, were each sentenced to six in jail and fined $250 and costs by Judge This dive was a disgrace to the city of ore and it is hoped the just sentence of the ill will have a salutary effect.

On Saturday last, in the case of J. H. C. s. Sarah Brooks, Judge Phelps, of Balti- ecided that a mortgagee was not bound to an assignment of the property to the mort- even though tendered the full amount of rtgage and all costs, when the property was o be sold under foreclosure for the non- it of interest upon the mortgage debt.

At Marion, Indiana, on Saturday last, a ruitally assaulted the 14-year-old daughter ill-know citizen, and it was thought the ould die. Her assailant was arrested and in jail and that night a body of men at- i to take him out and hang him. The and his deputies fired on the mob, killing n and wounding several others.

It seems now to be pretty well settled that strobe and Postmaster Veasey will contest rimeries for the Democratic nomination Mayoralty of Baltimore. Judge Geo. W. y, of the Orphans' Court, is also in the field nomination, and the names of Mr. Thorn- lins and Mr. E. G. Hipsley are mentioned ame connection.

There are only 848 persons on the pension to receive $72 per month. These are per- ly and totally disabled and receive the pension paid by the Government. 648 ers receive $56 per month.

COOPER AND HIS LYNCHERS.

JULY 14TH, 1885.

Messrs. Editors:—Cooper has gone to his own place, sent there by the hands of men who, fearful of the law's delay, wished to make sure that the so horrible violation of the law of God and man should meet with its just punishment, and to save his innocent victim from further torture on the witness stand. There is a difference of opinion as to the propriety of the lynching, but there can be no difference of opinion on this point, viz: That men who would not see the laws set at nought should be careful law-keepers themselves. There are two kinds of assault—moral and physical—for the former of which men meet with no punishment here, except, perhaps, from the stings of conscience. Each is equally offensive to the great Originator of all law and order, who is to be the judge of all men at last. Let men watch themselves, therefore, that they take not from the weaker sex, of whatever station in life, by force or bribe; that which they should prize more than life itself. Let them take temperance, purity and reverence for their motto and live up to it.

A MOTHER.

The Baltimore Times says land is greatly depreciating in value in England. Rents are steadily on the decline and landlords, to keep tenants, have been forced to make large abatements. Recently an estate in North Wiltshire, which ten years ago was valued at $240,000, was offered at $160,000, and no takers.

The Hagerstown Daily News, referring to the lynching of Cooper, very sensibly says "we have no patience with the demagogical, hypocritical papers that pretend to criticize the actions of men who dare to break down technical legal barriers in defense of the honor of their households." Let some of the Baltimore papers read and ponder.

A number of colored people of Hagerstown held a meeting at Bethel African M. E. church, Tuesday night last, and passed a series of resolutions denouncing the lynching of Howard Cooper at Towson town. They declare that the lynching of colored men "is a stigma upon the fair name of Maryland."

The Baltimore prohibitionists are making arrangements for the coming campaign. They will put up candidates for the Legislature, and perhaps the other offices, and will hold their primaries some time in August. This is Mr. Daniel's political-temperance scheme.
