Simpson, while on a visit yesterday to Port Deposit, in the county was afflicted with something like vertigo and fell suddenly, and was able to walk to her house. A little later she received a stroke of paralysis, the entire right side of her body being involved, and is lying at the bedside of her friend in a very helpless and wretched condition.

Striking molders of Messrs. B. C. Bibb & Co.'s iron foundry still remain out, and seems to be no hope of an early adjustment of the differences between the firm and their employers. The men complain that when the firm asked them in the winter of 1884 for a reduction of 10 per cent. the employers were willing to and did confer with them on matters with a committee of representatives appointed by the men, but that now, when the (employees) ask for a restoration of the 10 per cent. the firm refuses to have anything to do with a committee.

Several cases of what is supposed to be typhoid meningitis have appeared in Baltimore in the last few days; none as yet reported for the last fall and winter this disease is reported in Clavre de Grace and other parts of Harford county, and there were a number of deaths from it.

LOCK CO. (THE) WAS DESTROYED. THIS caused a delay of many minutes, and it was nearly a half hour after the fire started before the department reached the scene. The flames had gained considerable headway by this time, but the department succeeded in soon getting the fire under control. The second and third floors of the building, together with the roof, were gutted with their contents, and the lower and back buildings and contents much damaged by water. All the stock in the main building was consumed, and the machinery ruined. The loss to the firm is about $7,000, partially covered by a policy of $1,600 in the German Insurance Company of this city. The building, which is owned by J. F. Pullen & Co., was damaged about $1,500, covered by insurance. The senior and junior Cronhardt live in the back building of the factory. They gave as their reason for not carrying more insurance that they thought a nominal policy would suffice, as they lived on the premises and felt they could take care of the property in case of fire.

The Army of the Potomac Reception.—The military executive committee on the reunion of the Society of the Army of the Potomac, May 8 and 7, met at the Carrollton Hotel last night. Gen. John B. Kenly presiding in the absence of Major F. W. Simon from sickness, and Col. John C. King, secretary. Col. E. H. Law offered resolutions of sympathy with Gen. Grant, which were unanimously adopted. The finance committee report subscriptions amounting to $6,075.

Working at a Dizzy Height.—A large and deeply interested crowd stood around the shot tower, at Front and Fayette streets, most of yesterday, gazing at the figure of a man who was climbing up and down the flagstaff on top of the tower. The shot tower is 227 feet high, and the staff A. L. Eck, who was engaged in running a new lightning rod, was suspended by Richd. Goldman. The flagstaff is six inches thick at the base and tapers off to two inches at the top. Mr. Eck put up the pole himself some years ago and knew its strength. He was obliged to "shin up" it to do the work, and as it was very thronome on the muscles had to come down frequently to rest. The task occupied from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. Mr. Eck says the old pole, put up two years ago, had melted two inches. He says he did work higher than the shot tower once. It was placed a rod on a church spire in Tennessee 221 feet high.

Probing a Mystery. [Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.] ROCKVILLE, Md., April 10.—The attorney has examined Frank Jackson, the brothers who was with Andrew T. the night he so mysteriously disappeared. Frank says he and Andrew had been Seneca Quarries, and whilst there put whisky and drank it, and that they were somewhat intoxicated; that in return George Jackson joined them near Mr. son Ward's farm, and together they proceeded down the road until they reached Mr. Patrick Conley's place, when a man named George in the face, which was faint; that the two climbed and fell, T on top; that he parted them before had received any injuries, and they started toward home. When they had a short distance, George said he would and get Andrew's hat, which had been the scuffle, and that he and Andrew proceeded together down the road until
